Accidents Claim 2 Lives in Marion Area

MARION YOUTH IS DROWNED IN QUARRY POOL

Billy R. Nichols Unable To Swim, Dies; Motorist Killed Near Upper Sandusky.

Accidents claimed two lives in Marion county and neighboring area yesterday afternoon.

Billy Rice Nichols, 17, of Marion drowned in a quarry pool nine miles southwest of the city.

Paul Kalman, 74, of Spring Valley, Ill., was killed and four of his relatives injured when their car skidded on a wet pavement and overturned near Upper Sandusky. Included among the injured was a couple returning from their honeymoon.

Two persons were injured in two other accidents near Upper Sandusky.

Billy R. Nichols Drowned at Quarry

A Marion youth became the county's first drowning victim of the year Monday afternoon.

He was Billy R. Nichols, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nichols, of 533 Universal avenue.

He was a member of the Marion American Legion Junior baseball team, playing right field. He was in the lineup Sunday afternoon in the Legion Junior's game with a Detroit team at Lincoln park.

The drowning occurred at the Irey stone quarry near the Newman's-Cardington road, a half mile east of Route 98 in Richland township.

Nichols, unable to swim, was thought to have stepped off a ledge into about 25 feet of water. Three other youths were in the swimming party.

The accident occurred shortly after 2 p. m. but it was nearly an hour later before the Marion county sheriff's office was notified and life saving equipment arrived too late to revive him.

Nichols, a graduate of Harding High school in June, had gone for a swim with Emmett Ledford, of 336 Owens street, Richard Cramer of 230 Chestnut street and John Young, of near Marion.

Nichols, with Cramer and Ledford were helping Young in putting up hay at the Milky Way farms south of Marion owned by Merle W. Young, father of John.

The youths had left the farm shortly after 1 p. m. in Young's jeep, bound for the quarry to go for a swim, according to information given Sheriff LeRoy Retterer by the boys.

Arrived About 1:30

The party had reached the quarry about 1:30. The other lads were swimmers and were in the water when Nichols either stepped or slipped off a ledge into deep water.

Exact details on how the accident took place are not known, the sheriff said. The boys saw Nichols on the bank one moment and the next he had gone down.

Water at the south end of the quarry where the boys were swimming was estimated at 25 feet in depth, dropping virtually straight down from a narrow ledge at the quarry edge.

Nichols never came up, the boys told Sheriff Retterer. When they realized they could not reach the victim the boys sought aid. They said they were hampered, as nearby telephones were out of order.

Sheriff Makes Speedy Trip

The call to the sheriff's office was made at 2:45 p. m. Sheriff Retterer, Deputy George Conroy and Howard Corbin, a bakery truck driver making a delivery at the county jail at the time, rushed back to the jail garage, hitched up the rescue equipment and boat trailer and rushed to the scene, reaching the quarry at 3:02. While Deputy Conroy prepared the resuscitator for action, Sheriff Retterer with the help of Corbin and several others launched the department's boat and began dragging for the body. Spot where Nichols went down was marked by John Young, who accompanied Sheriff Retterer and the delivery truck driver in the boat.

Nichols' body was recovered within 15 minutes. The resuscitator was employed for more than 20 minutes but attempts to revive the boy were fruitless. He had been in the water for more than an hour.

Paul McAllister, of Marion, an experienced diver, was among those attempting to reach the body. After several dives, he reported he was unable to reach the bottom.

When it became apparent that there was no hope of reviving

Skip Full Approval of Truman's Civil Rights

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 13—Embattled Democratic platform drafters today skipped a point-by-point endorsement of President Truman's civil rights program.

But, in a compromise move intended to reunite the southern and self-styled "liberal" party wings, they wrote what some Truman supporters called a "strong" race issue plank.

Phrased only in general terms it is reported to omit the far-reaching states' rights declaration angry Dixie delegates had demanded.

The 4,500-word document, drawn by a subcommittee for action late today by the 108-member full platform committee, calls for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act and for an increase in the minimum wage from 40 cents to 75 cents an hour.

See Fight Averted

Some of the drafters voiced confidence that the compromise will avert any floor fight when the platform goes before the national convention tomorrow for ratification. Others, however, were not so sure.

One said the race plank was adopted despite White House pressure for "much more" on civil rights. President Truman was in frequent touch with the platform writers throughout their long toil. They put the last words to the semi-final document at 4 a. m. today.

The second preliminary draft was stamped "secret" just as was the first and somewhat different version proposed by a smaller committee 24 hours earlier.

Nevertheless, reports leaked out that, in addition to the race and labor planks, it proposes on:

Living Costs—A broad attack on inflation including standby price and rationing controls, as requested by Mr. Truman last fall.

Foreign Affairs—A strong plank for continued and strengthened international cooperation for world peace.

Palestine—Revision of the arms embargo to permit shipment of arms to the new state of Israel; immediate and full recognition of its territorial integrity; economic aid to Israel and the internationalization of Jerusalem.

Housing — Federal encouragements for homebuilding, and gov-

BELIEVE NEW TRUCE IS NEAR

Israeli Official Says End of Fighting May Come by Saturday.

By The Associated Press

A person associated with the Israeli foreign ministry said today there seemed every reason to expect a new Palestine truce by Saturday.

The Israeli army and the crack troops of the Trans-Jordan Arab Legion were fighting an increasingly violent battle within sight of Er Ramle and Lydda for supremacy of the road from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem. Both cities and an estimated 80,000 Arabs in them surrendered to the Jews Monday. The Legion counterattacked with tanks and artillery and scored some initial success before Israeli lines congealed.

The informant in Tel Aviv predicted a new armistice would come from modified proposals Count Folke Barnadotte is expected to place before the United Nations. Jews and Arabs both rejected his proposals last week.

The U. S. increased the planes flying into Berlin and started expanding the great Tempelhof airport. The British were reported sending in new troops, with some scheduled for Berlin duty, but this report was denied officially in London.

BOWLING GREEN, July 13—Eight cars of a southbound New York Central freight train were derailed at nearby Stony Ridge early today, but railroad officials said there were no injuries.

An unidentified railroad employe narrowly escaped injury when one of the derailed cars struck and damaged the automobile in which he was sitting.

Operations on the Toledo to Columbus line were tied up while workers cleared the wreckage from the tracks. Cause of the derailment was not immediately determined.

2 MARION CHILDREN STRICKEN WITH POLIO

Taken to Columbus Hospital for Treatment.

Two Marion children were stricken with polio during the last 48 hours, Dr. Martin M. Weinbaum, city health commissioner, reported today. Both were rushed to Children's hospital in Columbus after their cases were diagnosed by Marion physicians and they are receiving treatment there.

The children are Ruth Ellen Williams, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams of 467 Davids street, and Carl DeLong, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don DeLong of 152 Wallace street. Diagnosis of the Williams child's case was made by Dr Floyd Yeager, and of the DeLong case by Dr. William H. Whitehead of the Frederick C Smith Clinic.

According to a report received from the hospital today, Ruth Ellen Williams, who was removed to the hospital Sunday, had a "good night," and Carl DeLong's condition is "fair." The DeLong boy was taken to the hospital Monday afternoon.

Farmer, Merchant Picnic Program Set for July 28

The complete program of the Farmer-Merchants picnic to be held Wednesday July 28 at Crystal Lake Park was announced today by Elwyd Calhoun and Lloyd Lutz, farm members of the picnic committee.

The picnic will start at 12 noon, rain or shine, and will continue to 6 p. m., as plans now stand.

Special interest is centered on the popularity and beauty contest in which five county farm girls will vie with five girl employes of Marion stores. The picnic crowd will make the selection determining the winner by their applause and an applause meter, the same as used on radio network shows, has been secured to measure applause.

In addition to the heaping hampers of food brought by the picnickers free coffee will be provided for lunches between 12 noon and 1:30 p. m. From 1 to 2 p. m. there will be free ice cream and pop for all the kiddies, and picnic festivities will be broadcast from the park over WMRN between 1:30 and 2 p. m.

Program Arranged

Three complete and separate programs of events are scheduled for the afternoon so picnickers may have a choice of amusements. Children's events will be as follows 2 p. m. to 2:20 p. m.—an "on all fours" relay race for boys with four boys to a team.

From 2:20 to 2:40 p. m. there will be a rope jumping relay for girls with eight girls to each team.

From 2:40 to 3 p. m. there will be a "sack race" for boys. From 3:00 to 3:20 p. m. will be a "one-legged race" for girls.

From 3:20 to 4 p. m. there will be a "balloon blowing contest" for boys and girls.

Adult events in progress during the afternoon will include a "husband and wife" race between 2 and 2:30 p. m. From 2:20 to 2:40 p. m. a "ladies' nail driving contest" will be held. A "three legged race" for men will be held from 2:40 until 3 p. m. From 3 to 3:20 p. m. a father and son leap frog race will take place. From 3:20 to 4 p. m. the game of "find your husband" with wives hunting and husbands hiding will provide many hearty laughs for the picnic crowd.

Softball Game Arranged

For the sport loving set a softball game for men and boys will be in progress at the park diamond from 2 to 4 p. m.

At 4:30 p. m. the popularity and beauty contest will be held.

RAIN DELUGES MARION AREA

Downpour Blamed as Cause of Accident and Fires; Many Basements Flooded.

The rain storm which struck Marion yesterday afternoon left flooded streets and basements in its wake and was blamed as direct cause of one traffic accident and two fires.

Bad vision from the downpour of rain caused a car driven by Thomas B. Jones, 37, of Findlay to crash the rear of one driven by Ray R. Nunley, 23, of near Pataskala in the 900 block of Delaware avenue at 4:15 p. m. yesterday, police reported. Both cars were slightly damaged.

The east section of the city was heavier hit by the storm than the west. A total rainfall of 1.91 inches fell in the city, official reports from the city fire department state, while 98-hundredths of an inch fell at the pumping station west of town, as recorded by an official weather bureau rain gauge there. Nine-tenths of an inch of rain fell at the pumping station during the first 14 minutes of the storm, observers there report.

The storm started at 3:02 p. m. and continued until 4:55 p. m. according to official observers.

Three Fires Listed

Two fires during the storm were reported by Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt. At 3:41 p. m. lightning struck the electric lead in wires at the home of Imo Heth, 675 East Farming street, blowing all fuses and lights in the house. No damage was reported. A few minutes later firemen were called to extinguish a fire in the car of Mrs. Leroy W. Waters of 418 Olney avenue. The car took fire from a short circuit caused by water in the street splashing on the motor while Mrs. Waters was driving in front of 207 South State street.

Production at the Universal Cooler plant was halted for a few hours by the storm when lightning struck and burned out the main transformers of the lead-in lines which supply power to the plant. Plant engineers were able to improvise equipment in a few hours. Production was resumed at plant, and will continue with temporary equipment until new equipment can be obtained and repairs effected, the company reported.

Large sections of the city's east and southeast residential districts were virtually inundated as both street and dwelling storm sewers proved inadequate to handle the sudden heavy flow of water.

150 Calls for Service

The city service department received 150 calls from home owners with flooded basements before the storm was half over. The 200 and 300 blocks of North State street were flooded from curb to curb to a depth sufficient to stall fire trucks twice enroute to a fire on East Farming street. East Center street from Grand avenue to Wise's market was a veritable lake with flooded cellars the rule rather than the exception. A report placed water depth of six feet in the basement of one residence in the 300 blocks on Grand avenue, Orchard, Pearl,

No Drop in Meat Prices Seen as Livestock Gains

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 13—With livestock pounding out new price records every few days, no immediate drop in the high cost of living on meat was seen today.

Both private trade experts and the agriculture department agreed the near future outlook offered slight hope for the consumer. If anything, prices probably will go higher later this summer, they said.

The prospect for lower prices next year was called encouraging, although largely hinged on the hope of a bumper corn crop this autumn.

Hog prices at Chicago yesterday equaled their all time record of $30.50 a hundred pounds. A new record of $36.25 was made at East St. Louis, Ill. Other midwestern markets rang up prices at about all time peaks.

Cattle and Sheep Up

Pretty much the same story was told in cattle and sheep. East St. Louis had an all time record for choice steers at $38.75. Steers at Chicago touched $40.00, equaling the July record set last week. Lambs also were bringing the highest price for any July in history at $32.00.

In Sioux City, Ia., a load of 64 steers averaging 1,011 pounds sold for $33 per hundred weight to set a world record for a single sale of feeder cattle. The gross price paid for the 64 animals was $33,-354.16.

George Dressler, secretary of the National Retail Meat Dealers association, said the normal summer falling off in demand for meat had appeared this year but wasn't big enough to make up for the shortage in meat production.

"Prices probably are the highest on record at retail shops," Dressler admitted.

Price Resistance

As far as consumer resistance was concerned, Dressler said some housewives backed away from high prices but others went right on buying regardless of what the price was.

H. M. Conway of the National Livestock Producers association, one of the private trade experts who warned of the current meat animal shortage last April 30, saw little improvement in the present situation until September.

"Production of grain finished beef, which ordinarily comes to market now, was cut down sharply this year," Conway said. "There won't be any change in the current shortage until the grass fed cattle start arriving in numbers, probably around Sept. 1 to 15."

Truman Declares He'll Be Happy With Kentuckian

By The Associated Press

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, July 13—President Truman put out the word today that he "will be most happy" to have Senator Alben W. Barkley as his vice presidential running mate. That appeared to clinch a Truman-Barkley ticket for the Democrats.

Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath, announcing the President's sentiment, said Mr. Truman had not closed the door to others, however, and was leaving it to the Democratic convention to say who should run with him against the Republican team of Thomas E. Dewey and Earl Warren.

But the delegates filing into this hall were obviously in a mood to turn to Barkley. They gave the 70-year-old Kentucky senator a 28-minute rousing demonstration last night after he made a fighting keynote speech.

Informed of McGrath's statement, Barkley told reporters:

"I still have no statement to make as far as I'm concerned.

"I'm not trying to be evasive but I've got to make up my own mind as to whether I would accept under any condition, and I'm not going to make up my mind while I am temporary chairman (of the convention).

"After I get out from under that, maybe I'll have something to say."

As keynoter of the convention, Barkley is the temporary chairman.

All signs had pointed strongly to Barkley for the last 12 hours although some big city leaders, including Frank Hague of Jersey City and Paul Fitzpatrick of New York, were taking the view that some younger man should have the No. 2 spot.

After Barkley had provided the convention's first breath of excitement—a 28-minute stampede for his vice presidential candidacy last night—these leaders huddled with Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing in the convention hall office of Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath.

Feeling of Reluctance

Ewing came out like a man who had swallowed the canary of a Barkley vice presidential boom and looked for his own toadstools. The others wouldn't talk, either. But there seemed little doubt that if they take Barkley, it will be with the greatest of reluctance.

Against this, Louis L. Biffle, sergeant at arms of the convention and one of Mr. Truman's close advisers, told reporters after a stag party for Barkley that the Kentuckian is in.

"I think it is a cinch. I think there is no question about it," he said.

Barkley, who has maintained complete silence in the last two days about his evident availability, stood within earshot as Biffle made his comment.

The Kentuckian, as minority leader of the senate, has gone down the line for President Truman's legislative program.

Often a Democratic keynoter, he never has been a vice presidential bridesmaid, although he was among the contenders in 1940 and again in 1944. That was the year Mr. Truman was chosen for second place on the Franklin D. Roosevelt ticket.

First Enthusiasm

The slow-starting demonstration for Barkley, paced at the beginning by the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home," developed into the convention's first real lift last night.

In the nearly half hour it lasted it showed that the old warhorse had made a lot of friends in the Democratic party since the late President Roosevelt penned his famous "Dear Alben" letter in 1937 and thereby made him the party's senate leader.

The Roosevelt-Barkley friendship came to an abrupt end seven years later when Roosevelt clapped a veto on an income tax bill over Barkley's advice. The Kentuckian immediately resigned his leadership post but was re-elected by his fellow senators within a matter of hours.

Last night's demonstration—which some Dixie delegates were betting was longer than the one Mr. Truman will receive when he wins the party's presidential nomination Wednesday — made some quick converts.

Robert E. Hannegan, former Democratic national chairman who helped Mr. Truman on the ticket in 1944, said it looked to him as though the demonstration "has decided the issue" for Barkley.

Clinton P. Anderson, former secretary of agriculture, told a reporter he doesn't think the Barkley show would have been allowed to go on so long if the President had been set against having the Kentuckian for his running mate.

Seek Young Man

Hannegan and others had been reported seeking a younger and more New Dealish candidate to run with the President.

The demonstration even had its effect on Hague, one of the die-hards still looking around for another candidate.

A reporter asked him what he thought of Barkley's chances.

"What the hell," Hague replied, "you're not stupid, are you? You saw that demonstration didn't you?"

Although Hague's convention hall meeting with Fitzpatrick and Ewing was held in McGrath's office, it wasn't attended by the chairman.

McGrath was represented by friends as feeling that he could not afford to sit in on any more conferences about the second place spot until he had final word from Mr. Truman on his choice.

The chairman scheduled a 10 a. m. eastern standard time, news conference at which he said he hopes he would have "some news."

Among those who had a personal interest in what McGrath would have to say were Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, both avowed rivals after the No. 2 place.

Barkley touched off the demonstration for himself with a ripsnorting attack on the Republicans.

Climbs on Hoover

He brought the house down with a volley at Gen. Thomas E. Dewey, the GOP nominee, who called in his acceptance speech for a house cleaning to purge the corruption out of Washington.

"When the Democratic party took over the government of the United States 16 years ago," the white shirt, perspiring Kentuckian noted, "both the nations were so weak that they could not weave a cobweb in any department of the government of the United States."

The delegates liked it and they stood up and yelled.

When the speaker finished a few minutes later, a palpably manufactured demonstration began for him. A sweating delegate whipped into the air a sign proclaiming "Barkley for Vice President." The march was on to the tune of "My Old Kentucky Home."

The convention session listened again to speeches by deserving Democrats. Tonight House Majority Leader Rayburn of Texas will take over the gavel from Barkley and add his fire to the barrage directed against the Republicans.

Just ahead of Rayburn's speech, the convention program listed a memorial service for Franklin D. Roosevelt and servicemen who died in World War II.

Boring on Program

Boring, too, had a spot on the program to try to match Barkley's invective.

He said in a prepared address that Republicans have been written in the GOP-controlled congress by "the feudal four—Taft, Taber, Martin and Halleck." He added that their "thinking on almost every critical issue facing the country is nothing short of medieval."

And he said the Republicans had "extended backwards" the social security coverage, taking "protection away from 750,000 workers."

Senator Brien McMahon of Connecticut said the Republicans' failure even to refer to atomic energy in their platform is "a new and vicious form of isolationism."

Rep. Michael J. Kirwan of Ohio called the 80th congress "a miserable do-nothing for the misery of the people."

AUTO ORDERS EXCEED OUTPUT

List of Prospective Buyers Mounts Faster Than Production.

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT, July 13—If you were offered a brand new automobile at list price would you refuse it because its color was a lighter blue than you wanted?

Such things happen every day in the car merchandising business despite the fact some 6,000,000 persons want new passenger cars. In this instance the man had ordered a sedan of medium blue. A light blue was offered him within a few weeks after his order was placed.

Because he apparently did not realize how difficult it is to get a new automobile he now probably will have to wait 18 months before another one is offered him.

Never in the car industry's half-century history has the demand for automobiles been as great as it is today. Never has the prospect for catching up with the demand been less promising.

There are many duplications among the unfilled orders but all industry sources agree the backlog will show no shrinkage at the year's end. The industry may make 3,800,000 passenger cars this year it already has made about half that number. But orders are piling up faster than new cars are being built.

The industry has the capacity to build perhaps 5,000,000 passenger cars a year along with 1,500,000 trucks. But it cannot count upon the required raw material. Some in high industry quarters see no prospect of capacity production at any time within the next two or three years.

Along with an almost prewar volume of passenger automobile output the industry is turning out more trucks than ever before. This year's total of that type of vehicle should be close to 1,250,000 units.

It has been authoritatively estimated that since the war the car and truck factories have turned out about 10,800,000 vehicles. One of the results of this high volume output is that an estimated 27,000,000 motor vehicles now are using the nation's highways.

Many industry authorities believe that by 1950 the total registration of cars and trucks in the United States will be close to 40,000,000. They say a major expansion of the nation's highway system will be necessary if it is to handle any more than that number of vehicles.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Feel Tired? Have a Physical Checkup

Many people these days seem to be constitutionally tired. They go to bed tired, wake up tired, and drag through the day under a great burden of fatigue. Since they have no marked symptoms of disease, they are often told by some friend that nothing is wrong with them and yet a really thorough going physical examination would probably disclose half a dozen reasons for their habitual lack of energy.

The body reacts to so many different situations by fatigue, that if the source of the trouble is to be found virtually every organ must come in for its share of scrutiny. Such an examination may be well worth while, even though it is trouble-some for both doctor and patient, because it so often discloses the presence of unsuspected diseases in their beginning stage when they are most readily curable.

The physician who has a tired patient to deal with will perhaps examine the eyes first. If the pupils do not contract when they are exposed to light it may indicate some nervous system disease, such as syphilis.

A discharge from the nose, with paleness of the lining membrane, may indicate allergy or sensitivity.

Missing teeth may suggest some nutritional deficiency or lack of vitamins or, perhaps, indigestion. Infected teeth may be a cause of tiredness because their poisons may be taken up by the blood and spread throughout the body.

Sores on the tongue and lip may indicate deficiency of vitamin B or a lack of iron.

An enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck may indicate a thyroid deficiency which is a frequent cause of tiredness. On the other hand the whipping up of all the bodily processes which results from an overactive thyroid may also result in fatigue.

The patient's blood pressure should be taken. If it is low it may be a symptom of what is called Addison's disease in which there is lack of secretion from the adrenal glands located above the kidneys.

A test known as the sedimentation test may be carried out. This test is done by determining how fast the red cells settle in the blood. An increased sedimentation rate may indicate some infection, tuberculosis, arthritis, or a degenerative disease in order.

Tiredness may be a symptom of undulant fever, an infection due to germs which usually get into the body through milk. A test, known as the agglutination test, is helpful in detecting the disorder. The test is carried out by seeing if the patient's blood serum will cause clumping of the undulant fever germs.

Of course, counting the red cells and determining the amount of coloring in the blood are important signs since anemia may cause tiredness.

Chest X-rays and an examination of the heart will help determine whether or not disorders of these organs are responsible for the difficulty.

Fatigue may also be due to emotional strain to the change of life, and to similar disturbances.

People who sleep poorly and take sedative drugs may, in short time, become very tired from the drug itself. For this reason, these drugs should never be taken except when prescribed by a physician.

Tiredness is a symptom which demands careful investigation.

Ohio Democrats Gather For Philadelphia Show

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 13 — Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio might not be interested in the vice-presidential nomination, but his vivacious wife, Jane, was here today to watch the Democrats' quadrennial big show open.

"Frank will be in Tuesday night," she said.

Lausche, the Democratic nominee for governor of Ohio, was mentioned for vice president last week-end commented almost angrily:

"Just plain fantasy."

Lausche is not a delegate, and his statement that he was "deliberately omitted" from the delegation by party leaders brought a reply from Albert A. Horstman of Dayton, national committeeman.

"I want the public to know that no delegates were hand-picked," Horstman asserted yesterday.

Horstman said that the 44 district delegates were chosen by Democratic county chairmen in the congressional districts, that the 12 delegates-at-large were selected by him and W. A. Julian of Cincinnati, the delegation's "favorite son" candidate for president.

Thanks to Julian and some other party leaders, the Ohio delegates had a state headquarters when they arrived.

It is in the Rose room of the Sheraton hotel, a nice place with comfortable lounge chairs and a piano—in addition to desks and typewriters for Secretaries Dorkie Bradford and Celie Jirsa. Miss Jirsa, incidentally, is Lausche's secretary.

The Ohioans had announced a week ago that they would have no headquarters. Some delegates protested that this lack of a place to hang their hats would be an insult to the state of Ohio. So Julian promised to help provide the necessary funds.

Julian will give a breakfast to the Ohio delegates and alternates Wednesday.

The Benjamin Franklin hotel, headquarters of the Taft-for-President camp following last month's Republican convention, is contrastingly quiet today.

No bands, whooping delegates and blaring loudspeakers in the lobby.

The principal attraction for delegates on the main floor is 11 pinball machines with a large sign, "no gambling."

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I TRIED to make my face "poker" as I glanced at Olga after the almost sardonic comment she had made. The next instant, however, her mobile face expressed contrition.

"Please forget I said that, Madge," she said. "I have no reason to doubt my daughter's appreciation of the plans I am making for her wedding. But she is so much in love that I do not think she will see clearly anything save Georges' face. And I do not think he will give her time to look at anything. He is very possessive you know."

"Yes, I know," I said non-committally, but I made a mental vow that Olina would notice those table decorations, and realize that her mother had remembered her childish wish and carried it out. If I had to "shake the living daylights" out of both her and her betrothed husband. It was not on the free list, I told myself hotly, for Olga's loving, lavish plans to go unrecognized.

"I do not believe I can recall a single floral detail of my own wedding," Olga went on, and something in her voice stiffened me to attention. "But it was misery, not love that made me unseeing. You know my story? I would not speak in this manner if you did not know it."

"Yes, Olga," I answered softly to the question that was more an assertion than a query.

"Then you know that I married my husband by court edict, and that my heart always belonged to Philip. My husband and I had a good life, as marriages go. There was respect and calm affection between us, and we enjoyed our children, but his heart also belonged to some one else.

"I think that made it easier for both of us, that sense of hopeless loss shared," she went on. "As the years went on, we became very fond of each other. But romance was left out of our lives, and I am so thankful that Olina is having it. I never can forget the stark misery of my wedding day."

There was tragedy in her voice. Then she straightened her shoulders, and spoke incisively.

"I should be ashamed to remember, when my later years have been crowned so beautifully with Philip's love," she said. "And now, let us get back to our lists."

"You are leaving all the details, the numbers of blossoms, and everything else, to Mr. Kennedy?" I asked perfunctorily.

"Oh, yes, of course," she said. "But," she added anxiously, "I shall be there when he is decorating the table."

"Indeed, you will," I said. "He will not do any of the decorating until the day of the wedding, and that has not been fixed yet. I know only that we are going to the farmhouse day after tomorrow, for our supposed house party. The date of the wedding, I am afraid, will be fixed by my father."

"Of course," she said serenely. "And Charles will do everything in his power to make it easy for us."

"I know he would wish me to thank you for that speech," I said, smiling.

"I meant it," she said with emphasis. "Now, let us see, how many will be at the dinner table?"

Another rapid mental calculation gave me the tally.

"Fourteen," I said. "Women: You, Lillian, Katharine, Olina, Mary, Faith and myself, seven. Men: Philip, my father, Dusty, Harry, Noel and Mr. K., seven."

"That's a large number for one table," Olga said.

"Luckily, that table is very large," I said. "It has held eighteen at a pinch."

"Then, that is all right," she said, "Mr. Kennedy can plan accordingly. And now, we are at the last thing."

"Olina's suite," I said.

"Yes," she answered, her lips curving in a tender smile. "I want to decorate that myself. There really will be no decorations except containers of flowers every where, of Olina's favorite, creamy yellow roses. I shall want—let me see—ten dozen of them with delicate green to frame them. I want to make the child's suite a bower of beauty."

Jail on Wheels Coming to Marion

OHIO SHERIFFS' "JAIL ON WHEELS"

The $15,000 jail on wheels of the Buckeye State Sheriffs association will visit Marion Saturday July 17 and will welcome visitors when it sets up to show at the courthouse corner.

The mobile jail equipped with a real electric chair and a strong jail cell is showing here as a part of the association's statewide campaign against juvenile delinquency and in the especial interest of the Marion county sheriff's department and juvenile court's county-wide campaign against delinquency here. The mobile jail is being brought here as a result of efforts by Sheriff Leroy Retterer to secure an exhibit which would bring home to the public here the problem facing enforcement officers as posed by youthful criminals.

The unit is 32 feet long and carries an assortment of crime fighting apparatus found only in FBI and police laboratories.

The people of Marion county will have a chance to see what a jail cell looks like on the inside without having to go to the trouble of getting arrested. Sheriff Retterer said today. "I believe if the public particularly young-sters, takes a good look at this exhibit it will be a strong argument that you can't win with crime as a way of life."

The electric chair carried in the jail on wheels is an exact duplicate of one used at the Connecticut state prison. The mobile jail was built by J. Edward Slaven of New Haven, Conn., a retired former sheriff with 12 years service.

At Democratic Convention

In Plain Words By James Marlow

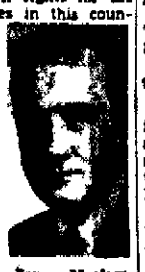
PHILADELPHIA

THIS Democratic convention must seem awfully strange to people outside the United States.

How are you going to explain to people of other countries what the real issue is here?

Yet, the issue can be stated simply.

It involves civil rights for the 13,000,000 Negroes in this country's 140,000,000 people.



James Marlow

Just to get the story in focus, start at the beginning.

Early in 1947 President Truman appointed a number of men and women to what he called the President's Commission on Civil Rights.

These men and women on Oct. 29 issued a report on their intensive study. It included such things as the pay of teachers in Negro schools and facts on the number of Negro lynchings.

Basing his thinking on that report, Mr. Truman early this year made a number of suggestions on civil rights for Negroes.

Whether you like it or not, Negroes in this country are treated as second-class citizens.

For example:

In the south Negroes must ride behind white people in trains and buses, they can't go to the same shows, or if they can get in at all, they have to sit in the gallery.

But anyway in 1948 President Truman cut loose with a number of suggestions to congress. He recommended things like these:

1. Congress to pass a law wiping out the poll tax. Seven southern states and New Hampshire require payment of a poll tax before a person, white or Negro, can vote.

2. Congress to pass a law making the lynching of anyone any time a federal crime.

THIS IS WHERE trying to explain this story to Europe—with its mixed up races—is not a simple job. This is why.

There are 13,000,000 Negroes in the United States and President Truman asked for a better break for all of them.

Right at this point southern Democrats—white that is—began to renounce Mr. Truman's program. They didn't want it.

They argued A state has rights, so the federal government has no right stepping in.

And right there the southern politicians jumped on the anti-Truman bandwagon and still haven't got off. They don't want him for president.

Mr. Truman's only major crime in the eyes of the south, is advocating civil rights.

THOSE CIVIL RIGHTS—based on the constitution—seem to express the noblest of intentions.

But in practical, every-day politics the shining issue often gets lost in the fog of conflicting realities.

The white southern politicians do not forget the troubles that beset the south after the Civil War. They are sure that the people of the south haven't forgotten.

In many areas in the south there are more Negroes than there are whites. The whites still hold in memory and fear the days when the victorious north, through the power of an occupation army, put political power in the hands of freed and uneducated slaves and northern carpetbaggers.

Southerners feel they have the best interest of the Negroes at heart. They say they take care of the Negro and should continue to deal with him, themselves rather than someone in Washington. They point to Negro advances under this system.

Yet, Europeans, apt to take the American Constitution at face value, may be puzzled by all the fighting that has been going on here.

But no European nation has exactly this same problem in its home country.

Jail on Wheels Coming to Marion

OHIO SHERIFFS' "JAIL ON WHEELS"

The $15,000 "jail on wheels" of the Buckeye State Sheriffs association will visit Marion Saturday July 17 and will welcome visitors when it sets up to show at the courthouse corner.

The mobile jail equipped with a real electric chair and a strong jail cell is showing here as a part of the association's statewide campaign against juvenile delinquency and in the especial interest of the Marion county sheriff's department and juvenile court's county-wide campaign against delinquency here. The mobile jail is being brought here as a result of efforts by Sheriff Leroy Retterer to secure an exhibit which would bring home to the public here the problems facing enforcement officers as posed by youthful criminals.

The unit is 32 feet long and carries an assortment of crime fighting apparatus found only in FBI and police laboratories.

"The people of Marion county will have a chance to see what a jail cell looks like on the inside without having to go to the trouble of getting arrested," Sheriff Retterer said today. "I believe if the public, particularly youngsters, takes a good look at this exhibit, it will be a strong argument that you can't win with crime as a way of life."

The electric chair carried in the "jail on wheels" is an exact duplicate of one used at the Connecticut state prison. The mobile jail was built by J. Edward Slaven of New Haven, Conn., a retired former sheriff with 12 years service.

At Democratic Convention

In Plain Words By James Marlow

PHILADELPHIA

THE Democratic convention must seem awfully strange to people outside the United States.

How are you going to explain to people of other countries what the real issue is here?

Yet, the issue can be stated simply:

It involves civil rights for the 13,000,000 Negroes in this country's 140,000,000 people.

James Marlow

Just to get the story in focus, start at the beginning.

Early in 1947 President Truman appointed a number of men and women to what he called the President's Commission on Civil Rights.

These men and women on Oct. 29 issued a report on their intensive study. It included such things as the pay of teachers in Negro schools and facts on the number of Negro lynchings.

Basing his thinking on that report, Mr. Truman early this year made a number of suggestions on civil rights for Negroes.

Whether you like it or not, Negroes in this country are treated as second class citizens.

For example:

In the south Negroes must ride behind white people in trains and busses; they can't go to the same shows, or if they can get in at all, they have to sit in the gallery.

But anyway in 1948 President Truman cut loose with a number of suggestions to congress. He recommended things like these:

1. Congress to pass a law wiping out the poll tax. Seven southern states and New Hampshire require payment of a poll tax before a person, white or Negro, can vote.

2. Congress to pass a law making the lynching of anyone any time a federal crime.

THIS IS WHERE trying to explain this story to Europe—with its mixed up races—is not a simple job. This is why:

There are 13,000,000 Negroes in the United States and President Truman asked for a better break for all of them.

Right at this point southern Democrats—white, that is—began to renounce Mr. Truman's program. They didn't want it.

They argued. A state has rights so the federal government has no right stepping in.

And right there the southern politicians jumped on the anti-Truman bandwagon and still haven't got off. They don't want him for president.

Mr. Truman's only major crime, in the eyes of the south, is advocating civil rights.

THOSE CIVIL RIGHTS—based on the constitution—seem to express the noblest of intentions.

But in practical, every-day politics the shining issue often gets lost in the fog of conflicting realities.

The white southern politicians do not forget the troubles that beset the south after the Civil War. They are sure that the people of the south haven't forgotten.

In many areas in the south there are more Negroes than there are whites. The whites still hold in memory and fear the days when the victorious north, through the power of an occupation army, put political power in the hands of fresh freed and uneducated slaves and northern carpetbaggers.

Southerners feel they have the best interest of the Negroes at heart. They say they take care of the Negro and should continue to deal with him, themselves rather than someone in Washington. They point to Negro advances under this system.

Yet, Europeans, apt to take the American Constitution at face value, may be puzzled by all the fighting that has been going on here.

But no European nation has exactly this same problem in its home country.

TUESDAY JULY 13 1948

Party of the Opposition

THERE is more at stake in the Democratic convention than the role it has in preparing a platform and naming candidates for the presidency and vice presidency.

Senator Barkley, keynote address speaker, has the responsibility of finding a rostrum of opposition for the Republicans who controlled the 80th congress and probably will control the executive branch after next January. He apparently believes that position should be taken mainly on the issue of foreign policy, assuming that the Republicans will allow foreign policy to be one an issue unwarranted a supposition that reveals the keynoter's own uncertainty.

In other words, Senator Barkley, one of his party's ablest spokesmen was unable to present in his keynote address any clear version of the Democratic role in the two-party system for the immediate future. Time and events have robbed the party of the momentum which carried it to victory in four presidential elections. Its bankruptcy on the score of meaningful issues is illustrated by its desperate search for a candidate to replace Mr. Truman—not because Mr. Truman has been faithless as a trustee of the issues bequeathed to him by his predecessor but because his followers have fallen into disagreement about the merits of the issues.

The preservation of the two party system is at stake as it always is when a party is passing out of power into the lean years of reorganization. It was at stake when the Republicans passed out of power in 1932. Their internal struggles in the years that followed are history. The struggles still are in progress, but they have produced new leaders and new policies. As a result the Republican party has regained a majority in congress and now seems destined to win control of the presidency.

For Filing and Remembering

WHILE some observers have been pointing out that William O. Douglas who was appointed at the age of 40 to the U. S. supreme court in 1939 is now almost a stranger in politics and therefore of little use to the Democrats, other observers have been wondering what will become of Harold E. Stassen, the young Republican.

There is a rumor that he may become president of a large university, and the rumor is made more interesting by Dwight Eisenhower's decision to accept the presidency of Columbia. Without pretending to know whether or not either man has ambitions for a political future, anyone with a sense of public relations can see the advantage of a cloistered background in politics.

Such a background makes it possible to stay before the public in a favorable light, free from the disagreements of political controversy, yet free to participate actively in discussion of public problems. It is expected that an educator will know what is going on and form opinions in contrast with the position of a jurist, for example, who is supposed to keep his opinions to himself. While university trustees may not always look kindly on a president who keeps himself before the public, the trend in recent years has been to expect this as part of the job.

The question of what to do with potential political leaders in the interval between major decisions never has been more pertinent. Mr. Stassen were to become a university president, joining Gen. Eisenhower in that select calling, many would raise a solution in the making, a way to keep potential politicians from being filed and forgotten while they and their friends wait for the lightning to strike.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

The Bosses and Their Convention Aims

POLITICAL bosses are, I suppose, inevitable in our society. When the direct primaries were introduced in many states it was hoped that they would destroy the power of the boss, actually this reform accomplished very little. The bosses continue to manipulate the people's vote, in many places offering candidates who are a disgrace to the electorate but for whom there is no alternative on the ticket.

SOKOLSKY

The principal opposition to Harry Truman comes from the bosses who fear that he cannot defeat Tom Dewey. The business of the boss is to win an election. Ed Flynn in one of the best text books on American politics, "You're the Boss," not only emphasizes this fact but blames the existence and the power of the boss on the political laziness and ineptitude of the people.

The bosses therefore would prefer a candidate other than Harry Truman, not because they favor Eisenhower or Douglas but because they are more concerned with electing local candidates who might be swamped by a tidal wave. They do not want district attorneys who in many places represent the true power of the boss defeated. They would also like to have a voice in the selection of federal district attorneys who, as in New Jersey, can be of great service to the boss.

Hague's Purpose

When Hague of New Jersey announced his support of Eisenhower he did not represent any principle in the Democratic party his concern was for his dying organization. He has had 16 years of good times, he wants a fighting chance at having four more years of it. The indorsement is an insult to Dr. Eisenhower.

The certainty of the bosses that Harry Truman cannot be elected has nothing to do with Tom Dewey. They know that the New Deal Amalgam which James Roosevelt and Leon Henderson are trying to restore has fallen into splinters. It is impossible to reconstitute the New Deal without the use of the Communist apparatus as the late Sidney Hillman well understood. It is ridiculous to assume that the Communists would switch from Wallace to Eisenhower but it is not outside possibility to assume that they would switch from Wallace to Douglas. For the Wallace campaign is not what it was at the start and the liberals and their allies hate to be left out in the cold.

What They Want

Therefore the bosses want a candidate who can make a deal with the so-called liberals, the left-wingers, the Communists and all the fringe groups who would like to continue to play a part in the political life of the country without on the part of the Communists offending Stalin and on the part of the non-Communist left wingers being absorbed by the right. Douglas' article in the Reader's Digest may impair his chances with Stalin although the Commies want Truman out at any cost. The bosses are in the business of garnering votes so that they remain in power. They supplement their income by being able to make satisfactory and helpful arrangements for clients.

And that leads to the second point which is that the Republicans have made much of the prosecuting nature of Tom Dewey. Mr. Truman has withheld important data from congressional committees which aborted many probes. In the course of 16 years some in power have been careless in their arrangements and some it is reputed have been neglectful in their income tax returns. How much of what goes the rounds is fact and how much hearsay will not be known until the power of subpoena is employed with presidential consent and with an effective attorney general in the department of justice.

May Be Some Fire

The hysteria which some Democrats display over the possibility of a Truman defeat would indicate that a strong fire burns under that smoke. It is not good politics to oppose Truman's nomination but it may be all that is left for those who fear the consequences of Dewey's election. It will be tough on the bosses and their clients either way now. If Dewey is elected, he will sure get the naughty boys; should Truman be elected, he will seek revenge. They would prefer anybody else now.

Why not try Henry Wallace and give the country to Joe Stalin.

Words and Music

By Raymond Moley

PHILADELPHIA

IF POLITICS be the music of words, play on. But in the name of heaven make it short.

Perhaps when television spreads over the nation it will force some reform in our absurd political processes. But that was the vain hope of some people in 1924 when a national convention was [illegible] on the air. During the interminable Democratic convention in that year an Ohio philosopher said: "This is the end. The people will never stand for this when they actually hear it." But his prophecy failed. The habits of politics are too firmly fixed.

MOLEY

The rhetoric of politics has a certain scientific standing. Aristotle wrote a great book on the subject reducing it to five rules and categories. When practiced by masters like Churchill or Woodrow Wilson political rhetoric has some of the attributes of great music. But our conventions have little of this class. Even good speeches are delivered in the midst of such disorder and weariness that they repel the listener.

But redundancy and equivocation are not confined to speeches. The whole language of present-day politics is invested with sloppiness and insincerity. Extravagant claims are the debased coinage of so-called political leaders. A hundred times during and after this convention the public will be told things it will not believe. Things the speaker knows [illegible] to be [illegible].

Claims of Victory

A specific batch of claims that [illegible] will be elected are common from people who visit the White House. A convenient example is provided by Mon C. Wallgren, governor of Washington. "We" (meaning the West) "will go Democratic." Then in Gilbert and Sullivan style there comes an afterthought — well, hardly all the west. "We might lose California." And "Oregon is like the Maine of the West." Then after a deep breath: "But generally speaking the West will go Democratic." By the West I mean the eleven states in the Western Governors' Conference.

Something like this backing and filling has pervaded all the stop-Truman talk. There is grave question whether some of the Eisenhower advocates really wanted the general at all or dreamed that they could get him. It was mainly a game of wiles to hold Truman while they were looking for someone else on whom they could all agree. Hague for example has uttered tall talk before—as in 1932 when he predicted dire defeat for Roosevelt before the convention and glorious victory after the convention.

Eternal Question

The eternal question is whether the ones who do the talking are deluding themselves. They are not dumbbells because they have held power by the most astute methods for many years. They cannot mean what they say. Therefore they must believe with some justification—that they gain political advantages by their insincere utterances.

That of course raises an ethical question. Is politics a profession in which truthfulness is not a virtue? Is there a moral law in politics essentially unlike that which prevails elsewhere? Or is there an ethical system in politics that has any resemblance to what is generally known as an ethical system? These are considerations which might well be in the minds of citizens as they listen to the Philadelphia story this week.

The UN's Housing Problem

By J. M. Roberts Jr.

IF CONGRESS does not approve a $65,000,000 loan for construction of a home for the United Nations in New York before Sept. [illegible] will be a strong fight in the [illegible] Assembly at Paris [illegible] sessions of the organization.

[illegible] talk of financing [illegible] building before [illegible] a special session of Congress are not being [illegible] it is not done, but [illegible] the current talk of [illegible] will become a full-fledged movement.

[illegible] financing is out. The [illegible] general is empowered [illegible] the U. S. loan. He [illegible] bonds or do anything [illegible] assembly action.

There is little doubt that the [illegible] could be financed quickly [illegible] subscription. But [illegible] that suggestion came up [illegible] only two years ago the UN decisions were overwhelmingly opposed. They are not going to pass the hat or have anyone pass it for them. They don't want the world's peace organization to look like a charity case.

The Arab states have been preparing to bring the matter up at Paris anyway. Opposed to New York in the first place but willing to go to San Francisco. They are now anxious to escape what they call the whole area of Zionist influence. Russia of course will be glad to help them.

Britain once cool toward the U. S. site prefers to stay now remembering that Europe would be a bad spot in case of war. France seems satisfied too. China presumably will follow the U. S.

Any General Assembly reversal of the decision to establish a permanent home in New York would require a two-thirds vote. Proponents of removal probably couldn't muster the strength.

But because the UN loan got caught up in last-minute congressional maneuvering, the United States is likely to be subjected to days of damaging embarrassment in Paris.

The loan would not have changed the minds of the Arabs and the Russians about New York, but it would have spiked their guns.

Dangerous Passage

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday July 13 1938.

The government stepped up its spending pace in the recuperative [illegible] average of $24 890 000 a day ordered by President Roosevelt. It was $3 613 000 a day more than the preceding year's average.

The need for a far reaching vocational education program in the city's high school was stressed at a public meeting held at Central Junior High school for the purpose of discussing questions pertaining to the new senior high school building. The meeting was the second of three sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association to inform the public of the need for increased high school facilities and for outlining the financial aspects of the PWA project under consideration.

Mrs. Christina Fritch, 62 lifelong resident of the Prospect community died of a heart ailment at the home of her brother John Hoch of Prospect.

Billy Bacon, Virgil Maag and James Houghton of Troop 3 and John Schaffner of Troop 6 Boy Scouts left for Marietta to attend the Old Trail Jamboree by the Fourth region Boy Scouts in connection with the Northwest Territory celebration.

A family picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Banfill on East Church street closed the season for the White Shrine Sewing Circle. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Banfill, Mrs. Rose Helwig, Mrs. Don Davis and Mrs. Roy Heiser.

Clarence Theodore Wagner 17 of North State street left for Norfolk, Va., where he was to take a 12 weeks' training course in the U. S. Navy.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday July 14 1938.

Rivers and creeks in Marion county were rapidly threatening to overflow their banks after a rainfall of 2.07 inches the heaviest of the season. The rain generally over Ohio caused damage estimated at $500 000 in the Ohio valley.

J. B. Stambaugh of Ada began another term as president of the National Onion Growers association following his reelection at the closing session of the association's annual meeting at Kenton.

Mr. and Mrs. John High and children Elizabeth Ann and Jack of Toledo were guests of Misses Belle and Sylvia Cellar of 180 West Center street.

Dr. J. F. Baker of East Center street and his son-in-law J. W. Johnson of Detroit and Hollis Gillette of Wilmington left on a fishing trip in Canada.

City council completed its financial program for the year by adopting a budget calling for $500 683 of which $219 858 was to be for payment of debts and $281 325 for operating expenses.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce laid plans to bring an aerial circus to the city.

Canby Lodge Knights of Pythias baseball team had clinched first place in the county. K. of P. eagle aspirants were made and wind up the league season.

101 For Second Time

By The Associated Press

WAKEFIELD England — Mrs. Ellen Walker has just celebrated her 101st birthday for the second time. She celebrated it last year, then checked up and found she was a year younger than she thought. Mrs. Walker, who keeps house for her 72-year-old bachelor son George, calls him from the fields for lunch by blowing a miniature bugle. "Once I could blow a full sized army bugle," she says, "but these days I haven't enough puff."

Meet the American in Charge

By Richard Kasischke

BERLIN

IF U. S. GEN. CLAY had been able to have his way he'd be cat-fishing in Georgia instead of being commander of the American occupation in this crisis-ridden city. He wanted to retire last October.

Gen. Clay, is the best known American in Germany. Even in Russia he is well known if only through the invectives hurled at him daily by the Communist press.

Millions of Germans look upon the 51-year-old general as the symbol of American democracy. They're glad the Department of the Army turned down his request for retirement.

Few Germans—or Americans, British or French—would approve Gen. Clay's policies in Germany and in Berlin 100 per cent. Some Berliners not knowing he can go no further than Washington permits him to go feel he should have got much tougher with the Russians sooner.

These critics feel that if American policy toward the Soviets had been sterner from the start the Russians might not now be holding a hunger blackade on the American, British and French sectors of the city. But the 2 000 000 Germans of western Berlin gratefully credit him with instituting the emergency air freight service which is now bringing in food and other supplies by air.

Opinion of Critics

Clay is generally credited even by British critics with having done the ablest and most efficient administrative job of any of the military governors of the four occupying powers.

He is the third American military governor for Germany but he actually has been in charge of occupation policies from the start. He served as deputy military governor under his two predecessors, Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. McNarney.

Clay was described during the war by one of his earliest backers, former Secretary of State Byrnes as a man who could run General Motors or Gen. Eisenhower's armies."

In November 1944, when a crisis developed in the supply line to Allied forces on Cherbourg Peninsula, Clay was summoned from Washington and is credited with being largely responsible for breaking "the bottleneck in short order." In 20 days he had doubled the flow of troops through the battered port and in three more weeks Cherbourg's capacity was increased 500 per cent. From that job he went back home to handle war mobilization and reconversion problems.

Occupation Formula

In some respects Clay is still an engineer. Some observers feel he handles creation of a democratic Germany as something of an engineering operation, with himself at the controls.

He laid down for the occupation a formula known as the "Four D's"—denazification, demilitarization, decentralization and democratization. Even his critics concede that he has executed these with vigorous technical efficiency and with as one put it, more resounding statistical success than anywhere else in Germany."

The British sometimes feel that Clay is domineering. A high British official here once said of him after a hard bargaining session that he looks like a Roman emperor—and acts like one."

Clay is a strict disciplinarian with his staff. He has an alert mind with rapid grasp of essentials and a penetrating intelligence frequently impatient with slower minds.

His relations with the other three military governors generally have been reported cordial.

The American commander also generally has cordial personal relations with Soviet Marshal Sokolovsky. It is reported that when Sokolovsky made his angry walkout on the Allied control council March 20 which wrecked four-power government for Germany he later called to assure Clay. Sorry—but this is nothing personal.

Clay is perhaps the hardest working man in Germany—at his office daily by 8:30 a. m. And often working late. When in Berlin he is at the office every Sunday.

CROSSTOWN

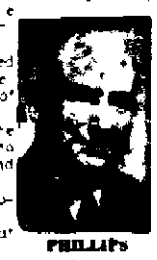
"We brought along the portable radio. THAT makes it slightly different from last year's vacation doesn't it?"

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

It's a Trying Summer

THE Democratic convention and Philadelphia's sesquicentennial celebration are both scheduled for the same season. Which will be the hardest on the eyes? Reading an oration or a Declaration will be the test. The question, "Which is tougher on the ears?" may give rise to extra [illegible] things.



PHILLIPS

If the Democrats earned anything from the Republicans' past they'll make sure of three things.

1. That the keynote speaker is a woman delegate wearing and reading a local newspaper.

2. That permission [illegible] to call it be [illegible].

3. That the [illegible] be cut out to allow time for broadcasting a couple of innings of the major league ball games.

The Philadelphia party should be entitled, through the Radio, to invite Harry Truman. The Democrats like Harry but have the same affection they feel for Lassie, Rin Tin Tin and Flicka. Even those who liked the Missouri Mule when he was a [illegible] for a Senate seat.

Harry came up in the American tradition of from the bottom up. And he does want the convention to make a second trip.

He stepped into Roosevelt's shoes and fate was really working him into one of the toughest spots in history. The party was sick and tired of bowman, haughtiness and personal government that [illegible] Harry in the top job. But trouble started on his plane from the start. It would have been better if Lauren Bacall had stayed here.

Harry would have had a much relaxation repairing bulldozers [illegible] motor.

A good many people think he couldn't have won his game with Joe Page helping in the pinches.

Even FDR would have looked bad in the last four years. But a lot of biggies want a new man and are surprised that Harry is so stubborn. They didn't realize that his experience as a haberdasher would make him regard a Potomac yachting cap as permanent headgear.

They figured he had suffered enough and would regard acting as the hitchhiker with tolerance and resignation. But with genuine pleasure. But he is going to stay in the line-up until the boys come home. And the question is whether the boys will come home in the face of all those Philadelphia dead-end street and detour signs.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: I wish some smarty-pants would give me a list of important things I should know all about. How can a fellow be sure he isn't missing something?

An old fossil like me goes along for months at a time maybe and doesn't think a thought about Malaya or South Africa. Or the situation in Pennsylvania politics or Texas cotton. Or the shortage of steel or the latest devilry in the Balkans. Instead he tries to keep track of his own business—meet his debts, be kind to his neighbors and maintain his health and property. He thinks he's doing all right.

Then one day some fellow who claims he knows what's really important gives the old fossil you-know-what for not having the jitters about something he never even heard about. The poor fellow is a blight on civilization because he hasn't found time to break out in a cold sweat over a lot of problems he never dreamed of.

This puzzles me. I was reading in a newspaper the other day that I should be ashamed of myself for not being hep to a movement I never heard of before for saving the world. So I cleaned off my glasses and tried to get hep. But the more I read the more confused I was because this movement to save the world is fighting another movement to save the world. I can only save the world one way at a time and the only way I know how to save it is to add as little as possible to the disagreements tearing it apart.

I have discussed the matter with your aunt who's smarter than I am and she says I'm crazy. She says I'm done more to save the world by being the way I am than I could have done by being the way someone else wanted me to be. But it keeps gnawing at my conscience—this possibility that I am not thinking about the most important things.

If I were a communist I could find out in a pamphlet what I should think about. If I was one of Henry Wallace's woozies he'd tell me what to think about.

Norman Thomas could tell me too if I'd take him at his word. But you see my problem don't you? Whoever's going to tell me what's important has to be someone I can believe.

In the meantime I'll have to fumble along as best as I can, working out the problems I know something about and skipping the others. Right now my main problem is whether to eat a piece of apple pie with cheese and a glass of milk before going to bed or whether to have a cheese sandwich and a bottle of beer. I think I will settle for the pie and milk. Then if I have any time left over I will ponder the problem of South Africa and what to do with Yugoslavia. The whole thing shouldn't take more than a few seconds, because I don't know beans about either one.

Everything here is under control. Your progeny won't come home until you make them. Regards to the rest of the family.

CIO PROTEST STRIKE CLOSES ELECTRIC CO.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 13—The huge South Philadelphia plant of the Westinghouse Electric Co was shut down today in a protest strike of 6,000 CIO workers.

John Schaefer, president of Local 107 of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers, said two men were "branded poor security risks" by the Navy and then "placed on a forced leave of absence and escorted from the plant."

The two men—Frank Carner and Herbert Lewin—were employed in the aviation gas turbine division of the Westinghouse plant at Suburban Lester.

Schaefer said they were "denied the right to work by unilateral action on the part of the Westinghouse company and the Navy department."

The union voted at a mass meeting yesterday to quit their jobs until formal charges and evidence are presented to substantiate the allegations.

A token sitdown force was left on the company property but most of the employes walked out.

The company said it was acting on the request of the Navy.

The Navy department in Washington said last night it would have no immediate statement.

Weddings

Before the fireplace in the home of Rev and Mrs Lloyd Harris of Pennsylvania Tuesday evening, July 6, Miss Ruth R Miley, daughter of Mr and Mrs Leonard Miley of Mt Victory, became the bride of Francis Joseph Peters of Marion. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs Christie Peters of Ashville, O.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev Harris, pastor of the Pennsylvania Church of Christ, at 7 30 o'clock, while a recording of "Because" was played softly by Mrs Harris. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Grant Jolliff Jr of Mt Victory. She was costumed in a two-piece coral frock with which she chose to combine white accessories and a picture hat of white lace. The traditional "something old, new, and borrowed" were carried out in the bridal attire, and blue daisies were combined with white carnations and baby breath to form the corsage of bridal flowers.

As matron of honor, the bride chose her sister, Mrs Naomi Jolliff, who was attired in a beige dress of a style identical to that of the bride. She wore black accessories and an off-the-face styled hat. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds. Chet Peters of Ashville served as best man for his brother.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for a two-week wedding trip through the east. For traveling, the bride chose a suit in an aqua shade with which she wore white accessories. Upon their return, they will make their home at 482 Blaine avenue. Mr Peters is chief engineer at radio station WMRN. His bride is a graduate of Mt Victory High school and until recently has been employed as a bookkeeper at the radio station office.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Bonnie Grimm, daughter of Mr and Mrs Orville Grimm of Bucyrus, to Robert Rose, son of Mrs. Margaret Rose of Blake avenue and Glen Rose of Cheshire, O. The single ring ceremony was read Saturday, July 3, at 10 30 o'clock in the morning in Russell, Ky., by C. L. Meenath, justice of the peace.

Attending the couple were Miss Alberta Zowen of Pittsburgh, Pa, and Charles Conn, also of Pittsburgh. Also present for the ceremony were Mr and Mrs. Sam Britts of Marion, brother-in-law and sister of the bride.

The bride chose for her wedding a blue and gray faille dress with which she combined white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Following the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip through southern Ohio and West Virginia. They will make their future home at 390 Uncapher avenue.

The wedding of Miss Myra Peiffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Harry Peiffer of 223 Jefferson street, and William H Lore, which took place June 26, at Russell, Ky., is being announced by the bride's parents. The double ring ceremony was read by Judge Ramey. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs Wayne Weir of Caledonia. The bridegroom is the son of Mr and Mrs Paul D Lore of 441 Thompson street.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Catherine Harder, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Lawrence Harder of Mt Victory, and Nelson Orth, son of Mr and Mrs. Robert Orth of Austinburg, O., Tuesday, July 6. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev Allen in the Methodist parsonage at Greenup, Ky. For her wedding, the bride was attired in a grey suit with which she combined white accessories. The couple's attendants were Mr and Mrs James Spreckin of LaRue. The bride was graduated from Mt Victory High school with the class of 1946. Her husband attended Mt Victory High school and is a veteran of World War II. They will make their home near Geneva, O., where Mr. Orth is employed.

2 MEN RESCUED FROM RAFT NEAR SANDUSKY

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 13—"P.S. I'm through with boat trips," declared Donald Edwardsen of Youngstown in a telegram to the Indicator today after the eight-foot life raft carrying himself and his brother Richard was picked up near Sandusky Monday afternoon.

The "Sailors" were 100 miles west of Ashtabula when rescued, and were further from their destination, Port Stanley, Canada, than when they embarked from Walnut beach at Ashtabula at 4 p m Sunday.

Edwardsen said he and his brother were drenched and their boat filled with water 13 hours after they departed when a storm came up.

The frail raft and its two bedraggled occupants were sighted about 4 30 p m Monday 22 miles off shore from Sandusky by the SS Rockwood owned by the Kelley Island Lime and Transport Co. The ship's officers radioed Coast Guard stations at Ashtabula, Fairport, Cleveland and Lorain and continued on into Sandusky harbor, arriving at 6 p m Monday.

Wallace's Ballot Spot Up for Court Hearing

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 13—Plea of Henry A. Wallace's third party for a place on the Ohio presidential ballot will get a hearing before the Ohio supreme court Wednesday.

The court yesterday called for arguments on the case. Wallace candidates for presidential electors have applied for an order to compel Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel to put the third party ticket on the ballot.

Hummel contended Ohio laws had no provision for nomination of independent candidates for president and vice-president.

The supreme court at the time will hear arguments on Wallace supporters' appeal from Hummel's decision barring the party from the ballot under the 1941 loyalty affidavit law.

REVIEWS LIFE OF NEW DEAL

Barkley Compares Records of Democrats and GOP in Keynote Address.

By The United Press

PHILADELPHIA, July 13 — The keynote theme in this presidential year as Sen. Alben W. Barkley sees it lies between unrestricted government by the Democrats and sabotage by the Republicans.

In a trumpeting keynote address to the Democratic national convention last night the "Old Kentucky Colonel" read the record of the 16 New Deal years and of the young Republican-controlled 80th congress.

The Democrats, he claimed, have behind them a consistent constructive and farsighted record of devotion to the people's welfare.

The Republicans Sen. Barkley said have only a record of attempted sabotage. Some of the state's programs, he charged, were inaugurated by the American government.

A Republican victory in November, he added would jeopardize U. S. efforts to curb Communism and preserve peace. He accused the GOP of:

1. Being dominated by the Pennsylvania political machine headed by Joseph R. Grundy of high tariff fame. This was a reference to Grundy's support of Thomas F. Dewey for the Republican presidential nomination at the GOP convention here three weeks ago.

2. Attracting to Washington a record-breaking swarm of lobbyists for special interests. Sen. Barkley said registered lobbyists increased from 360 during the Democratic-controlled 78th congress to 1,400 during the 80th. They spent "more than $8,000,000 to influence the 80th congress which is $3,000,000 more than the entire appropriation for all the 96 senators and their official staffs."

3. Imitating the New Deal in their platform while trying to wreck its reforms in congress and refusing to pass inflation curbs and needed social legislation. He charged GOP congressional leaders with "utter inaction" and "utter incapacity."

4. Trying in the house to cripple the European recovery program. Only the leadership of high-minded Republicans like Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan kept the GOP congress from slashing pledged recovery funds by 26 per cent, Sen. Barkley said.

5. Seeking to substitute for government of by and for all the people a government of by and for only the best people.

Sen. Barkley refused to "follow the example, so egotistically set by our opponents from this rostrum three short weeks ago, by announcing the result of the contest four months in advance."

But he said the Democratic bid for votes in November rests upon a record "which four times the American people have overwhelmingly endorsed."

Two Hurt on 7-Mile Stretch of Highway

Troopers of the Marion state highway patrol station yesterday investigated four automobile accidents on highway No. 30-N which resulted in possible fracture of the spinal column of one passenger and a fractured leg to the driver. All of the accidents occurred within a distance of seven miles and between the hours of 2:45 and 4:15 p. m., the patrol reported.

Boles Patkus, 55, of Philadelphia, Pa., suffered a broken leg and his daughter Eleanor, 24, a possible fracture of the spine when the car went out of control and left the highway at 3:40 p. m. about six and nine-tenths miles east of Upper Sandusky. The wife, Anna Patkus, suffered minor cuts and bruises. She was treated and released from the Bucyrus City hospital. The father and daughter are confined there. They were taken to the hospital in the Lucas ambulance of Upper Sandusky.

At 4:15 p. m. while patrolmen were still in the scene of the Patkus accident, a car driven by Lieutenant Colonel Noll Cox U. S. Army, Pentagon Building, Washington, D. RAINS BRING COUNCIL WOE

Water in Basements Brings Flood of Complaints To Officials.

City Engineer Tom S. Cathers was the central figure at city council meeting last night as the few legislative matters before that body were overshadowed by a bombardment of complaints from citizens with storm water and sanitary sewer troubles.

With but three virtually routine pieces of legislation up for action, council lost an opportunity for an abbreviated session when indignant citizens pressed the harassed city engineer for action to relieve flooded basements and other sewer troubles over a wide section of the city.

Several of the complaints stemmed directly from the heavy rain storm of yesterday afternoon which left several city streets under water for several blocks.

Sixth Flooding

Chief of these was registered by Thomas E. Sonnanstine of South Grand avenue who hesitatedly reported that his cellar had just been flooded for the sixth time in about as many months. Sonnanstine said there was six feet of water in his cellar and the fire department had to be summoned to turn off the gas.

He pressed the city engineer for details on what action the city contemplates for improvement of the storm sewer situation drawing forth a detailed analysis of the present system serving the eastern and southern sections of the city.

It was an old story to council. Members have heard the sewer problems aired regularly at each council meeting since the spring rains.

Mr. Cathers described the plans for diverting storm water south via a new line from Indiana avenue down to the Ququa ditch, a project authorized to be undertaken only several weeks ago as an emergency measure to relieve a large section of the east end including the newer residential section south of Mt. Vernon avenue.

Work To Be Yet

He indicated that it would be some time yet before the project could get underway as present plans on file for this part of the city sewer improvement program must be reworked and brought up to date.

Mr. Cathers said that in addition to constructing the new four foot storm sewer south from Indiana avenue, the city would have to plan on cleaning out at least three quarters of a mile of the Ququa ditch before it could be used for city purposes. Section of the ditch indicated was that from the Zachman farm south to the Firstenberger road.

Mayor Harry L. Dowler added to the engineer's analysis of the present situation with the comment that sewers were installed originally when Marion was little more than a village. As the community grew, more sewers were added on to the system without enlargement of original facilities or thought of future needs, he said. As a result, main sewer systems such as the Columbia street trunk line are now greatly overloaded.

City officials have recognized the problem and are now engaged in remedying the situation as far as funds voted for the purpose will go, he said.

Other Sections

Other sections of the city heard from included North State street, Lincoln and Midlam avenues.

Chief legislative action taken by council gave authorization to the city solicitor to continue the codification of all city ordinances and resolutions. The task of properly indexing legislation of city councils for the past 60 years or more was begun last year.

John Watters was authorized to employ a qualified person or persons at $45 per week to complete the job. The ordinance authorized $560 to re instigate the codification work.

Other legislation authorized Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt to attend the fire chief's conference at Toledo Aug. 19-21 and authorized additional appropriations from the city general fund specifically $400 for payment of interest due on the City hospital note and $87.38 for balance of taxes due on the new airport property.

CHARGE FRAMING BY FIRED OFFICER

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 13 — Two convicted robber-kidnapers have testified in common pleas court that they were 'framed' by former Police Lieutenant Ernest L. Molnar after allegedly paying bribes to him.

Harold Morgan, 37, and Luu Lorenzo, 44, testified yesterday before the court jury that they had paid "hundreds of dollars' in bribes to Molnar, but failed to receive "protection" from him after being jailed Their testimony came in the trial of the fired policeman on bribery charges

"Luis tried to explain to me in different ways how Molnar tried to frame him," Morgan testified, "and so I made up my mind that I was going to open up and tell what I knew"

Convicted of attacks on two Cleveland men who had winning numbers on their policy games, Morgan and Lorenzo testified they previously had been permitted to continue their operations through giving bribes to Molnar

Morgan told the jury that when he opened a "policy station" Molnar visited his cigar store

"I got into Molnar's car" he testified "He said he was glad to see me and glad to know I would be all right with the police He said if anyone bothered me to let him know and told me how to reach him through the Fourth precinct"

Morgan said he gave Molnar sums up to $100 at various times, and always transferred the bills in a handshake with the fired policeman

Asked if he had told his bribery story in jail, Morgan declared "I didn't tell a story I told the truth"

NEW STEEL PRICING PLAN IN EFFECT

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 13 — The new FOB mill pricing plan of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp and the National Tube Co, is in effect today.

A spokesman for the two subsidiaries of the U S Steel said yesterday that consumers would start paying actual freight rates from the mills as of midnight last night The company, in the past, quoted prices from "basing points" scattered about the country in an effort to equalize the cost of steel products to all U. S consumers

The consumer paid freight charges only from the "basing point" which usually was near his own mill

A recent federal court order affecting the shipment of cement forced abandonment of the "basing point" plan, the company said

Although the new prices on carload lots are the same as charged under the basing point plan, many consumers now will have to pay more freight than in the past.

2 OHIO CITIES VOTE TO RAISE BUS FARES

By The Associated Press

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 13—City councils in East Liverpool and Steubenville last night boosted cash bus fares from eight to 10 cents, paving the way for final settlement of a strike against Valley Motor Transit Co by AFL bus drivers

East Liverpool also raised prices of bus tickets from seven to 8½ cents. In Steubenville, tickets which sold at four for 35 cents will cost eight for 85 cents, and weekly passes were raised from $1 25 to $1 50

The striking bus drivers returned July 2 under a 12-day truce designed to give the city time to approve the new fares

Valley Motor had agreed to pay the 127 striking AFL drivers $1 16 an hour, an increase of 16 cents, if East Liverpool and Steubenville would grant fare increases

At Democratic Convention

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

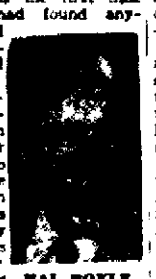
PHILADELPHIA

DEAR Alben did it.

No dark horse but an old and honored wheelhorse of the New Deal—Sen. Alben William Barkley—rode to the rescue of the torpid Democratic national convention.

In 60 stirring minutes of old-fashioned sledge hammer oratory last night he welded the quarreling delegates together in a tremendous outburst of party enthusiasm.

They gave him a 28-minute ovation. It was the first time the Democrats had found anything they could agree to cheer—or be cheerful about.



It was an antique bugle Barkley blew and an old but popular tune—the call to battle. It is the call that through the ages has made men bury their differences and fall in line

As he stood HAL BOYLE there a chunky powerful man in a white linen suit he was a kind of elderly David trying with verbal music to win King Saul—in this case the Democratic convention back from black depression to hopeful action

And he sang his summons to political war like a skilled minstrel who knows his tale well This was the third time in his long career he had sounded the keynote battle cry at a national convention

He spoke from a rostrum behind which towered the portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt—the man he had served so long and who once helped name him as his captain in a letter beginning Dear Alben"

LIKE ANY VETERAN commander who knows that no army wins by internal weakness he stressed Democratic records of achievement rather than convention differences

His powerful old-time eloquence hit at the Republican enemy time after time but he never mentioned together the two key words that have split, to convent on like a raw red wound—civil rights

But he touched upon the issue in interpreting Thomas Jefferson's statement in the Declaration of Independence that among the self-evident truths of mankind is the proposition that all men are created equal

And the old man from Kentucky went down the line for President Truman just as he had for President Roosevelt, even after he broke with him

"In declaring these truths to be self evident" said Barkley "Jefferson meant that they were not subject to dispute not to be submitted to a jury or a political convention not to be subject to compromise or evasion or subtraction"

AND HE CONTINUED with the most marked emphasis he gave to any sentence in his long speech

"What he (Jefferson) declared was that all men are equal and the equality which he proclaimed was equality in the right to enjoy the blessing of free government in which they may participate and to which they have given their consent"

Only a scattering of applause greeted him here.

But the delegates cheered repeatedly his praise of the New Deal record and his quips at the Republicans.

They laughed uproariously when he joked that "a bureaucrat is a Democrat who holds some office that a Republican wants" and "the Republican politicians have not been closer to Lincoln in two generations than to quote him."

When he finished with a prayer, the convention erupted in planned and unplanned tribute The rebel yells broke out, and for nearly half an hour the band played Dixie music, "The Missouri Waltz" and "The Sidewalks of New York."

THERE WAS CAMARADERIE there in the aisles, and cheers and weeping, and James Roosevelt sang with the crowd—"My Old Kentucky Home" He went to the rostrum and held high the hand of his father's old fellow campaigner The crowd loved it.

The ovation brought to a peak the move to make Senator Barkley—the man who has always tried to put the team above the man the party's vice presidential candidate

It was the reward of a lifetime of party loyalty

Some die-hard anti-Truman southern delegates even began campaigning for a new compromise ticket—"Barkley for president, James Roosevelt for vice president.

Neither Barkley nor Roosevelt gave it any encouragement.

But its backers, who had just heard Barkley say "behold, destiny itself knocks at our door," thought

"Open the door Alben."

The door Senator Barkley had tried to open led to—party harmony

The door he did open seemed to lead straight to the vice presidential nomination But the door to real harmony—was it even ajar"

Bruins Move On To Muncie Tonight With Alivojvodic Slated To Pitch

Special to The Star

RICHMOND, Ind., July 13—It took the Marion Cubs three games and eight innings to come to life against the Richmond Braves Frank Kristie's boys broke loose to score six runs in the eighth inning and three more in the ninth here Monday night to whip Richmond, 9-7.

Richmond had won the first three games of the four-game series and had a 5-0 lead for the first seven innings Monday

The Cubs rally handed Ray Poet his sixth win of the season with eight losses

Muncie Tonight

Tuesday and Wednesday Marion will be at Muncie to meet the league-leading Reds. Nick Alivojvodic (11-7) came off the disabled list in time to get the nod for Tuesday's game. He had been out of action with an injured knee and also had been suspended by Ohio-Indiana league president Frank Colley charged with inciting a ruckus in Marion last week

Catcher Stan (Chubby) King furnished much of Marion's punch Monday night. He doubled during Marion's eight inning rally and singled amidst the ninth-inning wrapper-upper

For seven frames the Cubs had but three hits and nary a run to show for their efforts of right hander Jim Rudolph young curly headed Richmond tosser

Rudolph was released earlier this season at Janesville Wis when Kristie was manager there

Poor Fielding Helps Cubs

After whiffing eight of the Cubs Rudolph was the victim of some poor fielding on the part of the Braves and some timely hitting on the part of the Cubs

All six of Marion's eight-inning rally-tallies were unearned but four solid base knocks off Manager Ollie Byers won the game in the ninth The third pitcher to labor for Richmond was the loser

He had pitched a full game against the Cubs Saturday and had won his fifth straight His record now stands 5-5 Skipper Kristie collected one hit in each of the four games in the Richmond series to go four-for-eleven a .364 performance

ROBERT A QUINN of Boston who was appointed director of Baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N Y last week got his start in baseball here in Marion in the 1890's He came here with a building gang that laid the first brick streets in the city and played ball on the Marion team in his spare time Later he managed the team and helped organize the old Ohio State league In 1902 he helped organize the American Association and spent 17 years with the Columbus Red Birds as player general manager and vice president then moved to the big leagues as president and part owner of the Boston Red Sox In 1936 he became head of the Boston Braves farm system and later held executive positions with the St Louis Browns and Brooklyn Dodgers

GEORGE M TRAUTMAN head of the minors reported Monday that minor league baseball thus far this year has attracted a million more spectators than in the same period last year pointing out that part of the increased patronage can be accounted for by the addition of six new leagues since the 1947 season. The increase in attendance hasn't been seen in Marion however nor in the Ohio-Indiana league Marion attendance is down considerably from last year but still is near the top of the league which has felt a drop in all its parks

PITCHER MITCHELL GEGAX was sent to Janesville Wis first baseman Ken Ostrander to Centralia Ill and pitcher Jim Autenson placed on the inactive list Sunday pending placement in another ball club in the Chicago Cubs chain to make room for the trio of new Marion hurlers Joe Tingle Mike Kelly and Jim Koehler all three of whom pitched good ball at Richmond though Kelly and Koehler were charged with losses due to poor support afield Seems as though every time the Cubs get good pitching the hitting and fielding fall off and when they're hitting the pitching is poor

* * *

THE OHIO-INDIANA league coffers ought to be fairly well filled by now what with the way President Frank Colley has been fining clubs and players of late

The $500 he levied against Zanesville for Friday night's ruckus there was a stiff one and according to the Zanesvilles unjustified inasmuch as the Muncie players and bus was stoned outside the park and out of their realm of police protection The Dodger ball park is located in a tough district anyway The Cubs were threatened with a $500 fine last Thursday when umpires Jim McClintock and Doc Staley reported to Colley that their dressing room was inadequate The umpires here have in the past dressed in the visiting team locker rooms because the visiting team generally doesn't use it but Thursday night the Portsmouth Athletics used the room and not only that but threw the umpires stuff out The next day the Cubs installed a shower in another room for the umpires That night the umps used the new room showered (presumably) in peace satisfied (presumably) with the arrangement and settled (presumably) the score with the A's when they cleared the Portsmouth bench after an argument in the third inning

Mal Whitfield's Endurance Is Talk of Olympic Team

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 13—Talk of a big Army sergeant with a seemingly endless store of endurance—Ohio State's Mal Whitfield—rose above all the confusion today as more than 300 of the United States Olympic athletes went through final processing for the trip to London

The major portion of the American delegation—to consist of 346 competitors and 83 officials—will sail for England tomorrow aboard the liner America

As they hurried through the routine of passports medical examinations and amateur oaths discussion in official quarters centered on the surprising Ohio State sophomore who scored a double in the Olympic track tryouts last weekend — in the 800 and 400 meter runs

"He well could be the surprise of the Olympic games predicted veteran track coach Dean Cromwell

There was speculation on if the durable Whitfield might be employed Would coaches try him in both the 400 and 800—forcing him to run seven taxing races in five days or would he concentrate on just one and perhaps the 1600 meter relay?

We hadn't figured much on the distance events until Whitfield came along" Cromwell said "Now I say, the fellow who beats him will win the 400 or the 800 He is a great runner

Whitfield probably will concentrate on the 800 in which he ran a 1:50.4 in the Olympic tryouts at Evanston Ill

The entire Olympic project is expected to cost around half a million dollars and the executive committee announced this outlay has not been fully underwritten

The committee said it still needed $80 000 but expressed hope the deficit could be raised so that no members would have to be left home

George M Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues disclosed last night that the baseball leagues had contributed $10 000 to help pay the expenses

WILLIAMS DEFENDS TITLE AGAINST JACK

Lightweight Champ Scores TKO in 8th Round.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA July 13—Ike Williams finally found an opponent who didn't know what it meant to back track and the string bean kid from Trenton, N J used him as a medium to prove he's a great lightweight champion

Williams scored a six-round technical knockout last night over Beau Jack swashbuckling former shoeshine boy who sought to make boxing history by becoming the first fighter ever to win the same title three times Each fighter entered the ring at 134 pounds

A disappointing crowd of 12,952 paid $83,789 at Shibe park and saw the ever-advancing Jack warmed all over the champion in the early rounds Williams jabbing and counter-punching simply waited patiently for an opening

In the sixth the champion caught Jack with a left hook and battering him with countless rights and lefts pinned him against the ropes Ike backed up Referee Charley Dagger to stop it but he said no

"Keep fighting Ike shouted Daggert above the tumult of the Crowd

Jack wanted to fall but he couldn't and finally Daggert stepped in and called a halt after 33 seconds of the round

The battle had been fairly even to that point Daggert had scored it two rounds for each and one even Judge Frank Knarsborough carded three rounds for Williams and two for Jack while Judge Harry Lasky saw Jack win three rounds and Williams two

The experts had been saying Ike held this title only because he never fought an aggressive challenger He proved them wrong in this fight

Williams said he planned to continue fighting as a lightweight discounting rumors he would campaign for Ray Robinson's welterweight diadem

A beaten and dejected Jack who had no excuse for his defeat said Of course I'll keep on fighting Fighting is my life

Rules Sulky Drivers Didn't Try To Win

By The Associated Press

SARATOGA SPRINGS N Y July 13—Saratoga raceway judges have ruled that two harness race drivers did not try their best to win

The judges yesterday suspended Aubrey Rodney and Pete Losee for 10 days and fined each $100

Rodney handled Major Abbee owned by the Lucknow stables Plymouth N H Losee drove Martin Song owned by the Markay Stable Cohoes N Y The Markay Stable received a 30-day suspension

Major Abbee finished second Martin Song ran out of the money in the race won by Tiyanne owned by Harold O'Connor and Fred Taylor of Glen Falls and driven by Vernon Devlin of Lake Placid The mutual payoff was $58.20 on a $2 win ticket

Those Harness Horses May Look 'Slow, But They're Faster Than You

By GEORGE SCOTT

So sometimes during a race out at the fairgrounds you think you could nip out on the track, roll up your pantlegs, and come home in the money

Don't do it For one thing, you'll look awfully silly Outside of the Myrmecobius Fasciatus (Australian anteater men's legs are the ugliest thing in the world But the principal reason is that, unless you're much faster than any other human, you won't stand a ghost of a chance

Gunder Haegg, a fairly fast man, ran the mile in 4:01.4 breaking the world record in 1945 at Stockholm, Sweden No trotter or pacer has ever come in that slow in a race short of dropping dead

On ice skates man has gone a little faster Clas Thunberg in 1926 on Lake Placid skated a mile in 2:38.2, a record for the distance But most harness horses with anyone lighter than a grand opera star in the sulky can better that time

In a racing shell with a lightweighted crew the best college boys have been able to do is cover a mile course in about half the time of a harness horse The horse referred to is in a harness race not rowing A horse can row little better than you and I—if as good

How does a trotter or pacer compare with a thoroughbred under saddle for the mile" Surprisingly enough harness horses are about only 20 seconds slower on an average

Greyhound one of the greatest trotters of all time broke the world record in 1938 for the mile by circling the Lexington Ky oval in 1:55¼ That terrific time hasn't been equaled by a trotter since Billy Direct a pacer in the same year and on the same track covered the mile in 1:55 against time This is the fastest mile ever recorded for a harness horse

Go ahead stop smoking start training get to bed early and for a month or so make your life generally miserable Then get a stop watch and compare your time with Greyhound and Billy Direct that is if you can crawl the last 200 yards

And a final word of warning Can you kick as hard as a horse" The track may get dusty but It isn't the cough that carries you off— It's the coffin they carry you you off in

ALL-STAR VACATION NOT ON THIS YEAR

7 Major League Clubs Play Exhibition Games.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 13 — The annual All-Star game usually means three days off for players not selected for either the National or American league squads but that isn't the case this year.

Yesterday, the first of the three idle days for big league clubs, saw seven major league teams engage in exhibition games.

With the exception of a game between the St. Louis Browns and the Philadelphia Phillies at Cooperstown, N. Y., all of the contests took place at night.

At Cooperstown, the Browns won a battle of homers from the Phils, 7-5. The Browns socked five round-trippers, the Phils two. Andy Anderson hit two and Ed Pellagrini, Don Lund and pitcher Bryan Stephens one apiece for the Browns while Del Ennis and Granville Hamner hit one each for the Phils.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were trounced, 15-8, by their Montreal International league farm hands before 17,809 booing fans at Montreal. Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo homered for the Dodgers. Fans objected when Jackie Robinson was benched early in the game.

Pittsburgh's Pirates also were defeated, 5-1, by their Indianapolis farm club of the American Association at Indianapolis. Former major leaguers Jim Walsh and Jack Hallett hosted the Pirates to seven hits.

At Buffalo, N. Y., the New York Giants, led by Clint Hartung and Lee Layton who hit homers, downed the Buffalo Bisons of the International league, 8-3. Mort Cooper, attempting a comeback, and Paul Erickson held the major leaguers to five hits.

The Philadelphia Athletics, behind the four-hit pitching of Bob Savage, Charley Harris and Les McCrabb, blanked the Wilmington Interstate league Blue Rocks, 3-0 at Wilmington, Del.

Cleveland's American league league-leading Indians trounced their Dayton Class A Central league farm team, 16-4 at Dayton, Ohio.

Milwaukee Beats Columbus, 4 to 2

By The Associated Press

Milwaukee kept its victory string intact last night by beating Columbus 4 to 2 and move within 2½ games of catching Indianapolis, American Association leader.

In the league's only game the straight triumph behind southpaw Brewers ticked off their ninth Glenn Elliott's seven hitter.

Milwaukee piled up three runs in the third on singles by Damon Phillips, Paul Burris, Gene Markland and Al Roberge. Mike Natison slammed his 19th homer with a man on base in the fourth for Columbus' two runs. It was the third place Red Birds' fourth consecutive defeat and put them six games behind the leading Indians.

93 AMATEURS HEAD INTO SECOND ROUND

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., July 13—One of the fastest fields in the fixture's 42-year history went into the second 18-hole round of the Ohio amateur gold championship tourney today with a two-field gain.

The top sum of most of the 88 hopefuls, survivors of 181 who opened the annual meet yesterday, was to get into the match play bracket of 64 which starts on a man-to-man basis tomorrow.

Secondary goal was to land off 19-year-old Jack Thompson of Youngstown in the race for the qualifying medal. Jack, whose father won the Ohio open championship just 30 years ago over this same course—Miami Valley Country club—canned a hole in one on the 145-yard fourth hole yesterday and then came home in 69 strokes, two under even figures. That gave him a one-stroke edge over 21-year-old Howard Saunders of Gallipolis, former Ohio State varsity player.

Right behind Saunders eight players were bunched in even par 71's, and there was plenty of talent in that bracket.

Included were Bob Servis, five-time champion from Dayton who is defending the crown. Ed Preisler of Cleveland, the 1946 champion, Alan Whaling, the Cincinnati amateur champ. Bob Myers of Granville, former state junior title winner. Bill Picard, 16-year-old South Carolina high school champion and son of Henry Picard, pro at the Cleveland Canterbury club. Ralph Stuntebeck of Bellefontaine and Ohio State freshmen Bob Rankin of Zanesville and Tom Nieporte of Cincinnati.

The 64 qualifiers play the first match play round over 18 holes tomorrow, two rounds Thursday and Friday, and the two finalists travel the 36-hole route Saturday.

National League Has Everything To Lose Against Battered American All-Stars

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, July 13—The National League had everything to lose and little to gain today as it squared off against its American league rival in the 16th annual All-Star baseball game.

A victory over the battered and undermanned American league outfit is imperative or the Nationals will lose a load of prestige. This is the one the senior circuitmen, who have suffered 10 pastings in 14 outings, must win.

The general feeling around the crowded hotel lobbies here is "if the National leaguers don't win this one, they'll never win."

The odds have dropped from the American league's favorite at 11-20 to almost even money.

Big Four Out

The American leaguers, seeking their third straight, were minus their "big four" consisting of sluggers Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio and ace pitchers Hal Newhouser and Bob Feller. In addition, George Kell, selected as the league's No. 1 third baseman, was stricken as a starter.

Tommy Henrich of New York and Hoot Evers of Detroit were selected by Manager Bucky Harris to replace his two sterling outfielders. Harris was undecided between Vic Raschi or Joe Page as his starting pitcher.

Originally Newhouser, the Detroit Tigers great lefthander, was slated to get the starting nod. Hal however reported he was suffering from Bursitis and could not pitch. Feller, although hale and hearty, bowed out and was replaced by Joe Dobson of Boston. Kell's starting place was given to Ken Keltner of the Cleveland Indians.

The biggest blow suffered by the American leaguers was the loss of Williams. The Red Sox power hitter has torn a cartilage on his left side and will not see action.

DiMaggio has been troubled by a swollen left knee and may be used as a pinch hitter only. Kell may see action in the latter part of the game. He has a swollen ankle suffered in last Friday's game.

The other American league players are in good shape. It must be pointed out, however, that six of the eight pitchers on the American league staff, worked last Sunday.

In sharp contrast to the American league situation, Leo Durocher's National leaguers, with the exception of Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals, are in fine shape. Schoendienst has a sore shoulder.

The clouds, which hung so heavily over the "dream game" yesterday, were somewhat diminished today. Players' representative Dixie Walker said the players themselves were going to take action against anyone purposely evading All-Star participation and Commissioner A. B. Chandler declared that "in the future the player selected to the All-Star teams will be there." Players receive no extra pay for participating, the proceeds going to a players' pension fund.

It is almost a certainty that Harris will pitch both Raschi and Page of his own team. Bob Lemon, the brilliant Cleveland righthander probably will pitch the middle three innings.

Righthander, Ralph Branca (16-6) will open for the National league.

EXPLAIN WAYS TO AVOID POLIO

Home Found Most Probable Place To Contact Disease, Scientists Say.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK, July 13 — How to keep your children away from infantile paralysis, as far as this can be done, was explained yesterday at the first international polio conference.

Home is the most dangerous place. If any one in a home gets the disease, or becomes a carrier, the intimate association spreads polio faster than any other now known way. From a polio home the disease spreads mostly to homes of intimate friends.

Schools and camps are not as dangerous, because the contacts between children there are not as frequent.

The carriers, those who have the virus causing polio but who are not sick, are among the spreaders. Any one can become a carrier merely by being associated with another carrier or with a person sick with infantile paralysis.

Carriers in Hospitals

Hospitals are sources of polio carriers. One case was reported of three infantile paralysis patients in a hospital ward, where 11 of the 45 other persons in that ward became carriers.

People who are sent to hospitals during an epidemic may include numerous carriers, even though they do not get the disease. In one outbreak one third of those sent for observation were carriers. These general rules of polio spread were shown in a University of Michigan exhibit.

Dr. Robert Wood, New York University School of Medicine, reported that the possible known pathways of spread are food, hands, material from mouths, utensils and toys, flies and sewage.

Yale university showed that outbreaks occur near contaminated sewage, and that in many outbreaks flies have been found carrying the disease. But it is not known that flies spread it to humans.

A new machine, the size of a television home set, that exercises paralysed muscles by sending electrical impulses through the body in place of dead nerves was shown by Northwestern University School of Medicine, General Electric Co. and the G-E X-Ray Corp.

Keeps Muscles Active

Muscles that seemed dead flex rapidly while this current is on. The machine is promising not only in infantile but other forms of paralysis.

This electrical exercise prevents muscles from wasting. At the Hines Veterans' hospital it has been found useful for the OIs whose legs are paralyzed by wounds. It is good for the stiff necks of meningitis, and for the form of rheumatism known as rheumatoid arthritis.

This conference is sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis whose president, Basil O'Connor, told the delegates that, due to war, no country has known all the polio advances of other nations.

$583 AVERAGE WAGE OF FARM WORKERS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 13—About 4,100,000 persons were hired as farm workers for at least part of 1947 and received average cash wages of $583, reports the agriculture department.

This average represents a 25 per cent hike over 1945 figures, but the gain was more than offset by a 36 per cent jump in rural living costs.

The figures are the result of a new survey soon to be discussed in detail in a report by the bureau of agricultural economics.

The bureau said the average $583 received by both full and part year workers included $408 from farm wages and $175 from non-farm wages.

Not included are the non-cash allowances granted to many workers, such as housing, meals and farm products.

The 1947 showing was somewhat better for hired farm workers who did no non-farm work. Their wages averaged $705. But they were virtually full time employes.

Nearly 1,000,000 workers switched back and forth from farm to non-farm work in 1947. They averaged $5.10 per day for non-farm work and $3.80 a day for farm employment.

As in past seasons, said the bureau, the majority of farm hired hands were seasonal employes who averaged only a few months of farm wage work.

Farm employment in 1948 is running about the same as last year, and a further rise in wages has been matched by continued spiraling upward of rural living costs.

TOLEDO, O., July 13—The Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. yesterday announced price increases on most of its glass products. The action came soon after union and company officials signed a contract providing for a general wage increase of 10 cents an hour.

FARM BUREAU BOARD PLANS ACTIVITIES

Arranges To Help Recreation School.

Immediate activities of the Marion County Farm Bureau were discussed at a meeting of the organization's directors at the office at 175 Park boulevard Monday night, and plans were made for future events.

Arrangements were made to pay half of the expenses of a group of county young people who will attend a district Farm Bureau recreation school at Baldwin Wallace college at Berea July 25-31. The course will include instruction in recreation, games, dramatics and choral work, and in the afternoons there will be conducted tours of such points of interest nearby as the Cleveland airport. It was voted to purchase a public address system for use in the county, report was made on a Farm Bureau hospitalization recanvass in which a required number of coverages was secured, and announcement was made of a preferred stock drive in the commodity end of the Farm Bureau cooperative association to be participated in the last of the month. A committee is being set up for a membership drive next year and plans are being made for the annual Farm Bureau picnic in the fall, it was stated.

Those who will attend the recreation school at Berea include Winona Prettyman, Betty Uhl, Freda Showalter, Beulah Murphy and Virginia Searls, all of the Meeker community, Jerry Gibb, Jane Wanton, Helen Fetter, and Dorothy Herbert, of Morral, Patricia Blank of south of Marion, and Bernie Retterer, Charles Heimlich and Marilyn Denzer of Waldo and Hazel Clunk of near Norton.

FACES GRAND JURY IN WOMAN'S DEATH

By The Associated Press

MIDDLETOWN, O., July 13—Lawrence E. Lowe, 29, of Middletown, today was awaiting action of the Butler county grand jury on a charge of first degree murder in the July 5 drowning of Vera Gibson, 33.

Lowe entered a plea of innocent yesterday when arraigned before acting Municipal Judge Richard Wilmer and was held to the grand jury without bond. A petit larceny charge against him was dismissed.

Grover Bell, 42, of Cincinnati, identified Lowe at the arraignment as Miss Gibson's companion the day of the drowning. He further told the court there had been a scuffle and he had seen the woman struck.

Bell and his brothers, Samuel and Louis, had reported the drowning and said the woman's companion had left the scene as they put her body into a boat. The brothers also reported theft of a wallet by the woman's companion.

The 33-year-old woman's body was taken from a pond on the city-owned Smith farm. First reports of the drowning indicated the woman had fallen into the water when a boat overturned.

Suit To Be Brought Against Marysville

By The Associated Press

MARYSVILLE, O., July 13—Marysville officials were notified yesterday that the city would be sued if an $8,000 part payment on a storm sewer is not made.

The G. H. Leach Construction Co., of Bellefontaine informed Mayor G. L. Kinsmore of the suit. City council withheld payment of the money, claiming the pavement under which the sewer runs was "unsatisfactorily" replaced after the sewer was installed.

Smith was arrested at 2:30 p. m. yesterday while at work at the General Excavator Co. plant and lodged in city prison. He was identified last night by the girl in question, police report.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 13 — Police sought today to identify the maker and owner of a pair of strong eyeglasses found near the scene of the fatal shooting of Frank Krech, 52-year-old operator of a tourist court.

Krech, who also was assistant manager of an Industrial National Bank branch, was shot Saturday night by a gunman who drove in front of one of his tourist cabins. He died yesterday in suburban Wyandotte hospital.

State police said the assailant was accompanied by another man.

Troopers reported they were checking evidence that Krech's attackers were the same ones who killed Earl Ambrose, a cafe owner, in Columbus, O., the night before.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 13—Conflicting price trends developed in the stock market today.

Some rail issues tried to carry through yesterday's advance but demand, as elsewhere, lacked any real drive. Few stocks strayed more than fractionally either way from the previous close.

Only slim turnover developed following two days of trading that each topped the 1,000,000-share market.

Higher prices were paid for Kansas City Southern, Southern Pacific, Nickel Plate, Atlantic Coast Line, Goodrich, Electric Power and Light, American Woolen, and Texas Co.

On the losing side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Firestone Tire, Woolworth, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, Commonwealth Edison, Westinghouse Electric, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Dusting Plane Annoys Fremont Sleepers

By The Associated Press

FREMONT, O., July 13—The early "bugaboo" plane may get the cabbage worms—but Fremont residents don't believe their sleep should be interrupted in the process.

Police and state highway patrol stations here have been swamped with complaints against a low-flying airplane. Investigation showed the craft was dusting cabbage for the Fremont Kraut Co.

Area residents approved of the operation, but declared they did not believe it was necessary for the plane to take off at 6:30 a. m. each day to get ahead of the worms.

Is ideal for the home, nursery, office or sick room. Here's why!
—Ribbon "blades" gently distribute the air. There's no blast effect, no direct draft.
—It is silent, will not vibrate.
—Light in weight, finished in mahogany bakelite.
—And the ribbon "blades" cannot harm the smallest children's fingers.
